

As members of the meat eater society, we all solemnly swear to uphold all of the codes laid forth herein this binding constitution, binding and arbitrary.

- Meat is a friend to my stomach, and therefore should be treated as such.
- Humans were all made as carnivores, and therefore should partake in the eating of all meat and meat products.
  - Including all of the following: Pork, Ham, Beef, Ribs, Steak, and all other meat substances not listed herein.
- Whenever we see someone who does not embrace meat as their friend, and tries to convince others of their ways, we do solemnly swear to uphold our beliefs, by showering the non believer in such things as animal blood, or forcing them to enter into a sacrament of holy consumption, forcing them to eat a variety of different meats, at the choosing of the high lord.
- We like to stack meat on sandwiches, and will stack as often as possible.
- We will meet biweekly, meeting at the appointed steakhouse or other meat oriented restaurant, or we will we kill our own animals and barbeque them on a grill at any members home. We will also drink large quantities of beer and other alcoholic beverages as we see fit.
- These items may be edited, added to, changed, modified, spit upon, thrown away, etc, as any of the members of the group see fit.
- We swear to uphold our beliefs, and to destroy any and all paraphernalia that goes against what we believe.
- Why do we eat meat? Oh yeah, it's the fucking food chain.

And above all, we do swear to uphold the wishes of those who eat meat, and will eat it everyday.

Signed.

---

Colonel Sanders

---

Ronald McDonald

---

Jimmy Dean

---

Seamus McMeaty